I offer great personal incentives each month - email me at barbmu@bresnan.net with any questions.

MY STAMPIN' UP! STORY -

I was introduced to Stampin' Up! by a co-worker in January of 2000. I went to her Stampin' Up! party and was instantly hooked. I had a couple of parties myself and earned a lot of FREE stuff. I moved to a new state shortly after that and stamping took the back burner to a new home and my first child. I was stamping but not as much as I would have liked. We moved again and I needed something to do so I started stamping again. I purchased some products from a long distance friend but quickly realized that I didn't like waiting for her to send me my goodies and I was spending too much in shipping charges. I initially joined just to "get the discount". Little did I know that in a few short years, my hobby would become a thriving business and I would be honored as the #42 demonstrator of the year in 2008, #25 in 2009, #25 in 2010 and #34 in 2011 out of 40,000 other demonstrators in the US. I have earned six FREE incentive trips and am working on my seventh. How would you like to go on a FREE Stampin' Up! cruise with me!!

Being FREE to set my own schedule means I can be as active as I want with my children's schools, work when I want and I am home with my husband on his days off during the week. I am also financially able to pay a number of our monthly bills and my job allows us to purchase things that we would not be able to otherwise.

Stampin' Up! has given me many gifts but the one I cherish most is the gift of overcoming my fear of public speaking. I used to freeze up when asked to speak in front of others. I would dread it for days prior to the event even making myself ill. As a Stampin' Up! demonstrator, I am always talking in front of people and talking about something I am passionate about has helped me conquer my fear of public speaking. I can now get up in front of any group of people and not feel like I am going to faint.

I would love to help you make this whatever you want it to be!!
